LONDON, February 2.

YESTERDAY all the Tenants who rented Booths in Frost Fair, had Warning from the Ground Landlord to remove as fast as possible, or else their Effects would be seiz'd.

Last Week a Silver Eel, six Foot and an Inch long, nineteen Inches round, and weighing 37l. was catch'd in a Meadow between Braintree and Bocking in Essex.

March 10. Extract of a Letter from Naples, dated Feb. 16. N.S.

The Privileges that the King is going to grant to the Jews who shall establish themselves in his Dominions, are greater than those granted to any other Nation. Many People, particularly the Ecclesiasticks, murmur at them; one of whom, the other Day, took the Opportunity when the King was alone, boldly to tell him, That his Religion was attack'd, and that his Subjects, being sensible of his Piety, hop'd he would have Regard to their Representations. The King told this Ecclesiastick, that he took an ill Time to speak to him about that Affair, and order'd him to retire. His Majesty has since banish'd him. This Example, however, has not prevented others from declaiming, with the greatest Vehemence, even in the Pulpit, against these Advantages granted to the Jews. A Dominican, a few Days ago, preaching upon this Subject, said every thing which the most violent Animosity could suggest to him: He express'd himself in such seditious Terms, that the Consequence might have prov'd extraordinary, if the Preacher had not been oblig'd to descend from the Pulpit, and return to his Convent. All this Discontent makes no Alteration in the Measures of the Court. Many Jews are already arriv'd here from divers Parts of Italy, and others daily arrive. Besides the Advantages that their Establishment will procure to Commerce, they will greatly encrease the Riches of the Kingdom. The Jews had Permission to settle in Naples in the Year 1200, and obtain'd great Privileges, which they enjoy'd till Charles V. order'd them to retire. The Ministry takes great Pains to put the Finances in a good Condition. All the Persons who were enobled under the Government of the Emperor, are to pay a certain Sum to the Royal Treasury, to obtain a Confirmation of their Titles: And People who have been placed in different Tribunals under the same Government, will be oblig'd to take out fresh Patents, to be confirm'd in the Exercise of their Employments."

March 25. As to the Affairs of the Conclave, our Letters from Rome advise, that in a late Scrutiny Cardinal Alberoni had 22 Votes; but that they cannot yet guess on whom the Election will fall.

They write from Dublin, that the Roman Catholicks of that City, have got Leave from their Clergy, to eat Meat four Days in every Week this Lent, (on Account of the great Scarcity of Fish, Roots, &c.) viz. Sundays, Mondays, Tuesdays, and Thursdays; and it is believ'd the like Indulgence is granted all over the Kingdom.

Some time next Month the Court will remove to Kensington, where the Marriage of the Princess Mary with the Prince of Hesse, will be consumated.

Three Men of War sail'd on Saturday last from Spithead, to cruise in the Channel.

Hague, March 31. Most People here, as well as in other Places belonging to the Republick, shew a good deal of Uneasiness at the Armament that is now actually making at Brest; and the States-General have sent Orders to their Ambassador at Paris, peremptorily to demand what it is design'd for. It is for the most part believ'd that the Squadron equipping there is intended for the Baltick, which Opinion is founded upon some News lately received here, that predicts a Storm to be rising in the North, and which gives Advice, that the Court of France has negociated at Constantinople, a defensive and offensive Alliance between the Porte and the Court of Sweden; but that the Success of this Alliance will greatly depend upon the Conduct of the Schech Nadir. Some particular People, however, yet pretend, that they have Advices from France which say, that a Squadron of 18 Men of War is really design'd to be sent into America, by Way of Convoy to the Galleons, &c. and that it is therein assur'd, that Cardinal Fleury pretends, that this Enterprize will be consistent with the most exact Neutrality, seeing such Squadron will industriously avoid having any Rencounter with the English, and only takes upon it to convoy the Galleons, &c. in order to secure the Riches which the Subjects of the most Christian King have on Board the same. Who can be sure that this specious Pretext, given out for sending a Squadron into the West-Indies, is not a Piece of French Policy to draw in other Nations to support them in it, as particularly the Republicks of Holland, Venice and Genoa? Now should the English suffer this Squadron to pass unmolested, 'tis more than probable, that the Court of France would take so favourable an Opportunity of declaring in Favour of Spain, because it would, in some Degree, have it in its Power to protect the Spanish Possessions in America, and to prevent Great Britain from gaining any farther Advantages in those Parts. France is unquestionably much nettled at the Success of the English in America, as well as at the Interruption of her Commerce there; for this Reason she gives out, in order to prejudice Foreigners against the Proceeding of this last Nation, that the Riches which come from Spanish America, is the common Treasure of all the European Nations, of which the Crown of Spain is, and ever since the Discovery of that Country has been the Guardian: It is therefore the common Interest of Europe, to prevent the Spaniards from being drove out of the Possession of any Part of those Dominions. Such are the Subtil Insinuations of the Court of France.

London,

London, April 1. Yesterday an Expres arriv'd from the Earl of Waldgrave; the Dispatches he brought are said to be of great Importance; and it is even reported, that his Excellency having demanded of Cardinal de Fleury the Motives to the Armament making in several Ports of France, inasmuch as his Eminency often declar'd that his most Christian Majesty would observe a strict Neutrality during the present War with Spain, the Cardinal made Answer, "That those Armaments were no way design'd to break the Neutrality; but since his Excellency insisted upon knowing their Designation, he would ingenuously confess, that, copying the Example of Great-Britain, who in 1735, sent out a powerful Squadron to protect the Brazil Fleet, in which his Britannick Majesty's Subjects had a very large Share, his most Christian Majesty likewise intended to send out a Squadron to protect the Flotilla and the Galleons in their Voyage to and from America, because not only his own Subjects, but also those of several other Powers, were interested in them; but nevertheless, having still in View the Neutrality he proposed to observe, his Ships of War would not suffer the Spanish Vessels under their Convoy, to attack any Ships belonging to the Subjects of Great Britain, &c."

Vast Number of People go every Day to Deptford, to see the Transport Ships, which are fallen down to that Place, and certainly there were never such fine Ships got together on such an Occasion.

BOSTON, May 29.

By Letters and Persons from Albany, we have the following further Account of the French Expedition against a Nation of Indians in Amity with the English, and settled on a Branch of the Mississipi, behind Carolina and Georgia, as formerly mention'd in the News Papers, viz. That last Year a Body of 800 French and Indians went from Canada, with Design to exterminate the said Indian Nation, who several Times before had been attack'd in vain by the French and their Indian Allies, for refusing to submit to the French Government; and after a tedious March of many hundred Miles, came at last to the Confines of their Enemies Country, and encamped upon a Neck of Land, very convenient, as they thought, for their Purpose; which the Indians (who had Notice of their coming, and watched their Motions) observing, encamped upon the same Neck of Land, by which their Communication with the Country was entirely cut off; and the Indians having now got their Enemies in the Pound, made several furious Assaults upon them both by Land and Water, killing and wounding many; and the Survivours being almost famished, and having no Hopes of Relief, made a Virtue of Necessity, and throwing themselves into the Water, endeavoured to save themselves by swimming, which a few of them did; so that out of the Eight hundred, about fifty lately returned home in a most miserable Condition, without Arms or Cloaths. The French General, who was said to be the finest Gentleman and the best Officer in Canada, lost his Life in this expensive and unfortunate Expedition.

Newport, May 30. Saturday last arrived here Capt. Allen in the Revenge Privateer, having on Board several Goods, Plate, &c. which he has taken in his late Cruize, he was receiv'd with great Joy by the People; and he is now fitting out on another Cruize. Capt James Collingwood, in the Sloop Charming Betty, and Capt Charles Davidson in the Sloop St. Andrew, are also fitting out on a Cruize against the Spaniards They are all to sail in a short time.
